

The conference:

We aim to initiate debates about peer violence prevention and we want to integrate results of the conference into the manual final version.

We want to create an open atmosphere to discuss questions regarding peer violence prevention and multidimensional social causes of violence.

With this conference you are invited to be part of a sustainable network and to exchange with other experts from the fields of education, social work and violence prevention.

International Conference of

Peer Think

Tools and resources
for an intersectional prevention of peer violence.

Conference for experts
from education,
social work and violence prevention

This is PeerThink:

PeerThink is a Daphne II project which aims to develop tools and resources for an intersectional prevention of peer violence for teachers, trainers, educators and peers. (www.peerthink.eu)

PeerThink aims to build a ground for violence prevention with adolescents and young adults, which reflects the interconnections of categories like gender, ethnicity, religion, educational background and other social structures systematically.

For an effective anti-violence work, the relations between multiple social dimensions have to be included systematically: violence prevention will become „intersectional“. This new approach is tested and evaluated in the PeerThink project.

There are some results:

- An online manual with a tool kit including methods and self-learning modules
- Reflection guidelines and strategies for implementation of an intersectional approach
- Sustainable experts' network on intersectional education, social work and violence prevention
